

Hall Consulting Group Privacy Policy

1 Introduction

Hall Consulting Group Pty Ltd Pty Ltd has an obligation under the Privacy Act 1988 (Privacy Act) to have in place adequate arrangements for the effective management of an individual's personal information.

The Board and Management are fully committed to respecting the privacy of our clients' personal information. Personal information is information which identifies an individual or from which the identity of the individual can be reasonably ascertained. An individual's name, address and telephone number are examples of an individual's personal information.

2 Scope

This Policy applies to all legal entities and employees of Hall Consulting Group Pty Ltd. It also applies, to the maximum extent possible, to agents and contractors that act for or on behalf of Hall Consulting Group Pty Ltd.

3 The Standard

This Standard outlines Hall Consulting Group Pty Ltd personal information management practices. It covers the following areas:

- Collection of personal information
- Use and disclosure of personal information
- Access to and updating personal information
- Security of personal information
- Contact details
- Complaints
- Changes to this Policy

4 Collection of Information

We only collect personal information about a Client which is necessary to carry out our functions and activities or that we are required by law to collect (e.g. tax laws and anti-money laundering and counter-terrorism financing legislation).

5 Use and Disclosure

We generally use and disclose a Client's personal information for purposes related to the main purpose for which the information was collected. We may also use or disclose a Client's personal information if the individual has consented to the use or disclosure.

For example, we may disclose a Client's personal information to our service providers who assist us in administration. We will only disclose an individual's personal information to these third parties on a confidential basis so that the service provider can effectively provide those services.

We may otherwise use or disclose an individual's personal information where required or authorised by law, for example to government agencies such as the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) or Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC).

6 Access to personal information

A Client may request access to their personal information or request us to correct information that we hold about them. To make a request, please put your request in writing using the Contact Details in section 8 of this policy.

We require as many details as possible about the information requested in order to help us retrieve it. We will also require proof of your identity before we can provide you with access to your personal information.

In some circumstances, we may not be required by law to provide an individual with access or to correct their personal information. If this is the case, we will provide the individual with reasons for our decision.

7 Security of Information

Hall Consulting Group Pty Ltd takes reasonable steps to protect all of the personal information we hold from misuse and loss and from unauthorised access, modification or disclosure. This protection applies in relation to information stored in both electronic and hard copy form.
